

User groups are used to manage access rights and authorizations in KentixONE for different users. The use of user groups can ensure that users in KentixONE can only access the information and functions that are necessary for their role or responsibilities.